Supporting Canadian-made products is important for both the economy as well as everyone living in this great country. It provides and can even increase the number and quality of jobs in Canada and strengthens Canadian industry.

Paint and coatings are unique products – their end use, in many circumstances, depend on where the coating will be applied – both the actual substrate that is being painted, as well as the geography of the project. Cloverdale Paints are formulated for use in Canada's dramatic ranges of geographies – from the warm and wet Pacific West through the dry and sometimes frozen prairies through to the Maritimes. If a paint is formulated for use exclusively in continuously mild or hot climates, it's probably not best suited for projects in our diverse climates.

Consider the origin of the paint you're using. Made in Canada matters.
