SURREY, BC, Oct. 3, 2025 /CNW/ - Cloverdale Paint has announced that Jake Jevric, MBA, Chem.Eng has joined Cloverdale Paint as Vice President, Trade Sales & Marketing. Mr Jevric replaces Marty McKenna, a veteran of the Paint Industry in Canada, and Cloverdale's former VP Trade Sales & Marketing, who will retire at the end of 2025.

Mr. Jevric comes to Cloverdale Paint with two and a half decades of paint industry experience – both behind the bench as a chemical Engineer, as well as an MBA from the Rotman School of Business. Jake chaired the Toronto Society of Coatings Technology (TOSCOT) for 12 years and worked with coatings chemists to develop a multi-module coatings training program that has formed the basis of today's Coatings Academy of the Canadian Coatings Association.

Across a +25 year career in the coatings industry, Mr. Jevric brings to Cloverdale an extensive portfolio of experience from a diverse variety of roles within both the manufacturing and the chemical distribution space. Through PPG automotive, L.V. Lomas distribution (currently IMCD Canada) and Lorama Group, Jake has honed his industry skills across both the North American as well as the Global paints and coatings industry. In addition to his diverse commercial leadership roles, Jake has spent over a decade as the lead technical liaison within the CASE (Coatings, Adhesives and Sealants) industry-related academic and professional research groups.

Jake is also active on a range of industry associations, including the Board of Directors at the Canadian Coatings Association where he also Chairs the Coatings Academy, and he has been involved with American Coatings Association, the Colour Guild and the Guild CPO procurement group.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Cloverdale Paint, please join us in welcoming Jake Jevric to the Cloverdale Paint family.
